

Media Release

Ticket sales open for Premier's Harmony Dinner

14 December 2023

Tickets are now on sale for the annual Premier's Harmony Dinner, one of the most anticipated events on the Multicultural NSW calendar.

The 2024 event will celebrate and honour NSW residents whose commitment to community harmony and social cohesion makes them leaders across the community.

Multicultural NSW Chief Executive Officer Joseph La Posta said the event was set to become the largest ever, with a record 1,600 tickets available for the evening.

"Every year multicultural community members eagerly await the start of ticket sales so they can join in the celebrations," Mr La Posta said.

"Together we uniquely celebrate and unite Community Language Schools from across NSW, our NSW Ethnic Community Councils, Migrant Resource Centres and many hundreds of dedicated community and faith leaders from right across NSW."

"This year we will again highlight the rich history of cultural diversity in NSW, and how it has influenced and continues to shape our state's future."

Since its inception in 2012, the annual Premier's Harmony Dinner recognises and celebrates cultural diversity in NSW. It is hosted by the Minister for Multiculturalism, in the presence of the Premier of New South Wales.

The evening is a chance for guests to connect, share stories and strengthen relationships across a diverse range of cultural and faith groups.

A key component of the event is the awards program to honour individuals who have had a lasting and significant impact on our multicultural society in NSW, by awarding of the Premier's Multicultural Community Medals.

Importantly, people who have passed away over the previous year who dedicated their lives to the principles of multiculturalism will be inducted into the Multicultural Honour Roll. This posthumous recognition honours their lasting legacy of service to our diverse state.

For more information visit the Multicultural NSW website: multicultural.nsw.gov.au/nsw-premiers-harmony-dinner/.

MEDIA: Kerri-Ann Hobbs, Media and Communications Manager, 0439 086 356